AI Implementation Specialist at J. Goldman & Co., L.P.

J. Goldman & Co., L.P. ("JGC") is an independent investment manager founded in 1986 by Jay G. Goldman and has been in continuous operation for almost four decades. JGC's investment philosophy is based upon fundamental analysis, a comprehensive understanding of the capital markets, and disciplined execution on investment ideas. JGC seeks to achieve attractive risk-adjusted returns in all market conditions with low correlation and low volatility. The firm employs a rigorous process to identify, evaluate, and allocate capital to the best ideas of its investment professionals. JGC is a meritocracy where teamwork is demanded, talent is rewarded, and absolute integrity is required.

The firm is seeking an AI Implementation Specialist to work with our Head of Data on the firm's AI efforts. The AI Implementation Specialist will interact directly with the firm's Portfolio Managers and Analysts across all equity sectors. This individual will learn how each sector team generates, researches, and evaluates investment ideas in order to enhance or develop AI tools to make those processes more efficient. The role combines hands-on technical work with a strong understanding of the investment process. The ideal candidate can identify useful applications of AI, build and test tools using firm data, and communicate effectively with investment professionals about where those tools can add value.

Vice President, Human Resources

Financial District, Lower Manhattan | In-office 4 days per week

I'm working on an exciting search for a Vice President, Human Resources with a well-established and growing healthcare organization of approximately 300 employees, based in the Financial District in Lower Manhattan.

This is a senior HR leadership opportunity with an in-office requirement of four days per week, so I'd especially appreciate you sharing it with experienced HR leaders in your networks across Manhattan,

Brooklyn, Long Island City/Queens, Jersey City, Hoboken, Staten Island, Westchester, and other areas with a convenient commute into Lower Manhattan.

The organization specializes in healthcare payment integrity and clinical review solutions, partnering with health plans and other healthcare payers nationwide to improve claims accuracy, reduce unnecessary healthcare spending, and identify opportunities for cost savings.

The VP of Human Resources will serve as a key strategic partner to senior leadership and have broad responsibility across employee relations, performance management, compensation, Talent Acquisition, employee engagement, compliance, HR technology, and organizational effectiveness.

We're looking for an accomplished HR leader who can operate strategically while also being comfortable rolling up their sleeves and driving execution.

The ideal candidate will bring strong experience:

- Leading and developing HR teams
- Advising senior executives and business leaders
- Managing complex employee relations matters and workplace investigations
- Leading performance management and compensation programs
- Overseeing Talent Acquisition and recruiting operations
- Driving employee engagement and organizational initiatives
- Ensuring employment law and HR compliance
- Evaluating and optimizing HR technology and systems

The organization offers a very generous and highly competitive executive compensation package, including a strong base salary, performance-based bonus opportunity, and comprehensive benefits.

If you know an outstanding senior HR leader who may be a great fit, please feel free to forward this email or share it with your network.

Interested candidates can send their resume or contact me directly at Eve@ScaleUpsUSA.com.
